King's Bench Walk. The Inner and the Middle Temple are the most interesting, historically of the Inns of Court. Here, as the name shows, was the abode of the Knights Templars who settled here in the 12th cent., and attained great power and riches during the years of their exploits in the Crusades. When the Templars were abolished by the Pope, the Temple lapsed to the Crown in the 14th cent., and in 1609 was declared, by Royal decree, the property of the Legal Corporation of the Inner and Middle Temple
